Dear Colleagues,

We, the members of Indian Institute of Homoeopathic Physicians, West Godavari Chapter welcome you all to Helapuri or Eluru Town as it is known today. It is the granary of India, since about 50% of rice production comes from this district. West Godavari is enormous potential because of its location of religious monuments, temples and endowed with rich historical and archaeological heritage.

Abode of Lord Sri Venkateswara Swamy, Dwaraka Tirumala, also called Chinna Tirupathi is nearer to Eluru. Kolleru lake, a big fresh water lake is also found near Eluru. Eluru is also known for its well established educational institutions. It is the hub for Paddy, tobacco, coconut exports to all parts of state. It is well known for laces carpets and incense sticks (Agarbathi) exports to all over the country.

The organizers :

Indian Institute of Homoeopathic Physicians (IIHP) is premier and the only national organization for qualified Homoeopathic Physicians in the country. It has been striving for the cause of Homoeopathy and Homoeopathic Physicians. It has always been in the forefront to promote and popularise Homoeopathy in organizing health camps, awareness Campaigns, facilitating CME programmes for young doctors and workshops / conferences for practising Physicians. It is with this motto that the IIHP, West Godavari District is privileged to organize this event to inspire and inculcate the true spirit of Homoeopathy.

In the year 2002, IIHP, W.G. Dt. Unit conducted one day AP State Homoeopathic Scientific seminar on the occasion of installation of bronze statue of our founder Dr. Samuel Hahnemann at R.R. Pet, Eluru. It is the memorable day in the history of Homoeopathic fraternity of our A.P. State.
